Pen is mightier than the sword

By : Pranjal Tiwari

Pen is mightier than the sword a metonymic created by Edward bulwer , where he compared two objects a pen and a sword , though these two objects have no connection with each other yet it signifies a great lesson and deep meaning .

These six words (pen is mightier than the sword) proverb emphasise on the greatness of a pen over a sword , of course both of them have their own work at different places but a pen with a small nib obviously not as sharp or big as a sword creates the greatest impacts on our day today lives , taking an small example of my college , in my college there are students with different departments and backgrounds such as science commerce , law etc and thousands of students with different mindsets and ideas studying in the same place all this is happening with a help of pen which allows us to write what we read , learn or think .

They say that a pen is a greatest weapon which works in silence and creates impacts directly on the mind and the soul of n number of people in one go. Swords are used to end those precious lives which can give birth to new writers , scholars and what not with the help of a pen Sword are meant for battle fields , it indicates violence , violence again people , animal community or a country . Only physically strong people can use the sword where as the pen can be used by a kid to and 90 year old person , Pen doesn't see the gender , caste , color , creed , racism it only writes .

Basically a pen writes what a person thinks , it's the power of once knowledge , warmth courage , positivity , ideas etc . In today's world even the wars are not fought with the weapons the things have changed the presence of pen had played a vital role over the time , the things are now solved in a delegatory written way.

lastly someone with a sword or weapon can only force his views on others irrespective of others consent where as a thoughtful mind sees a sword in a pen itself . We all can strongly agree with this as the newspapers books articles were all started their emerging journey with the help of a pen so have the faith in your thoughts write it down and let the people know u and your ideas explore the world virtually with the power of your pen , scientifically it is also proven for students that when you write down and practice simultaneously for long term it leads to a successful path!!

Pen has always been a sign of intelligence n valour !!
